The G. A. R. lost 8,000 members last year by death, but the pension roll continues to hold its own.

Wheat is now hovering around the dollar mark in the Northwest and some of the mills have shut down in consequence.

The farmers are about the only ones who make no complaint of the heat. They say this is just the kind of weather needed for the growing cotton.

The good roads movement has struck South Carolina. President Hyatt says that $200,000 has been expended the past year for good roads in the Palmetto State.

The Hon. Tom Johnson was nominated for Governor by the OhioDemocrats and John H. Clarke endorsed for U. S. Senator. If talking counts for anything in an Ohio campaign, the Hon. Tom will prove a howling success.

It is predicted by J. D. Fisher, a prominent Democrat of New Orleans, that Louisiana will send a Cleveland delegation to the next Democratic National Convention. From all indications, Grover will not secure the nomination, however.

The San Francisco Call says: "San Francisco has given another proof of her extraordinary patronage of plug uglies. The heavyweight fighters have given their exhibition, we have given them more than $62,000 to see it, ticket scalpers have feathered their nests, everybody is happy and the promoters are scheming to arrange another 'contest' for the delectation of the absurdly indulgent people of the city."

INTER-STATE 'PHONE.

Officials of Company Contemplate Marked Improvement of the Wilmington Exchange.

MAY UNDERGROUND WIRES.

Preliminary Survey Commenced Yesterday—Kellogg System Will Probably be Installed—Applications for Enlarged Service—Notes.

President L. A. Carr and Secretary and General Manager W. W. Shaw, of the Inter-State Telephone Co., with headquarters in Durham, arrived in the city yesterday and authorized the announcement that early this Fall work will be commenced upon a general overhauling, improvement and extension of the company's exchange in Wilmington. This step, they say, is to meet demands for a much larger and more up-to-date service. Recently the company has invested between $30,000 and $40,000 each in Raleigh and Durham with the result that those cities are now enjoying the finest telephone communication in existence and if conditions are favorable, the same will be done for Wilmington.

One of the first steps will be to apply to the city for permission to place the Inter-State wires underground and following that will be the installation of a complete metallic circuit system. A preliminary survey of the down-town sections of the city with a view of placing the wires underground was made yesterday by Messrs. Carr and Shaw and Capt. W. P. Oldham, the local manager in Wilmington. Mr. S. P. Adams will complete the survey and forward his report of same to headquarters in Durham this week.

Mr. Carr said in an interview about the proposed work that there have been so many requests for new 'phones that he finds the present system inadequate and that the capacity of the exchange now in use will be either increased or a new exchange will be installed "from the jump." If the new plant is installed it will be the Kellogg system, now in successful operation in Raleigh and Durham and said to be the best in the United States. Mr. Carr said the Inter-State now has applicants for over 200 'phones and the the company is forced to take some action to accommodate them at once.

Mr. Carr said the work upon the proposed new system would commence as soon as possible after Oct. 1st, as the city will permit no excavations before that time. A week or two will also be required to perfect plans, etc. With the Kelogg system Mr. Carr says he guarantees a two-second service in changing the connection from one subscriber to another.

Mr. Carr left last night for his home at Durham and Mr. Shaw will leave to-day.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MILLWRIGHT.

J. A. Hobbs Found Dead in His Room Early Yesterday Morning.

J. A. Hobbs, 39 years of age and a millwright lately employed by the Angola Lumber Co., of this city, died suddenly yesterday morning about 7 o'clock at the home of Mr. Thos. H. Robbins, 903 North Fourth street, where he boarded. The death is attributed to alcoholism by Dr. C. T. Harper, city superintendent of health, who visited the room in which Hobbs died and issued a death certificate to the health department.

It is said that the unfortunate man had been drinking heavily for a week or more. He retired to his room as usual Wednesday night and very early yesterday morning he was heard moving about and talking in an apparently delirious manner. Later the room was quiet and a servant was sent with breakfast to the man. A knock on the door failed to bring a response and it later developed that Hobbs was dead. He was found lying on the bed, half dressed, and the presumption is that he attempted to get up and go down to breakfast as usual and that his heart failed. He was a man well liked by all who knew him, his only great fault being the excessive use of drink. He was a native of Chowan county, this State, and came to Wilmington some time ago from Suffolk, Va. He has a sister living in Chowan county and an effort was made last night to reach her by telegraph, but the telephone line was down between Suffolk and her home and the effort failed. The body has been embalmed by Undertaker W. E. Yopp and its disposition will be decided upon to-day.

Hyman and wife, of Newbern, and Zebulon Weaver and wife, of Weaversville, N. C., transferred to Jno. R. Turrentine, Jr., for $50, lot on east side of Fifth, between Grace and Walnut streets, 66x165 feet in size, and Furney J. Gooding and wife transferred to Joseph H. Hanby and wife for $2,500, house and lot on north side of Dock, 110 feet east of Fourth street, 55x132 feet in size.

Low Water in Cape Fear.

Yesterday afternoon's Fayetteville Observer says: "There is very little water in the river, and navigation is about suspended. The "Hurt" is on a sandbar down the river, and it is doubtful if the "City of Fayetteville" will be able to get up to-night."

THE LABOR DAY OBSERVANCE

Proclamation Issued Yesterday by the Governor—Arrangements for the Celebration at Wrightsville.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Labor Day Committee was held last night, Chairman W. C. Wallace presiding and Mr. J. Edgar Lewis present in his capacity as secretary. The arrangements are now about complete for the elaborate celebration at Wrightsville beach Monday week and indications point to a very large attendance.

The sub-committee on music reported that the Fort Caswell Band, under the direction of Prof. Marvin Culbreth, had been secured for all day and would report for duty at 9 o'clock on the morning of the celebration.

It was decided to offer $50 in prizes for the several field events and that amount was placed in the hands of Secretary Charles Dushan, of the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Wilbur Doscher for the purchase of suitable trophies. Entry blanks will shortly be distributed and a fee of 25c. will be charged for each entry.

Alfred Klesse, the Flying Ring Artist, who was for a long time on the Keith and Proctor circuits, has been engaged for morning and afternoon exhibitions at The Casino during the day.

The Governor, who will be the principal speaker of the day, yesterday issued his proclamation for the observance of the day throughout the State as will be seen from the following special to the STAR from Raleigh last night.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 27.—Governor Aycock to-day issued a proclamation for the observance of Labor Day September 7th, and asks that employers and employes everywhere cooperate in a worthy recognition of the dignity of labor by a becoming observance of Labor Day. He asks all to foster and strengthen that confidence between those who employ labor and those who work, which is essential to the peace of the State and for the happiness of the people.

"THE TELEPHONE GIRL."

Something of the People Who Make the Production—Car to Wrightsville.

The greater majority of the members of "The Telephone Girl" Company, which will be seen at the Academy on next Monday evening have been drafted from the ranks of the most prominent musical organizations in the country. Max Bloom, who plays "Hans Nix," was last season leading comedian of "The Belle of New York;" Nellie V. Nichols, leading soubrette, filled a similar position with Rice's "1492"; Harry C. Lyons was Harry Gilfoil's successor in "The Liberty Belles"; May F. Linden, soprano, is late of the "Bostonian Opera Company" and Jules Bennett, was leading baritone of the Primrose and Dockstader Minstrels.

The sale of seats for "The Telephone Girl" begins to-morrow morning at Plummer's. By special arrangements with the C. R., L. & P. Co., a suburban car will be in waiting after the performance to return all who may desire to come up from the beach or sound to see the performance.

Mr. A. P. Yopp, after a brief visit to his family in this city, returned yesterday to Spencer, N. C., where he has a responsible position in the Southern Railway shops. Y., where he will remain four months inspecting and superintending 54 mammoth locomotives which the Southern is having constructed there, nine of which have already been completed.

TO DRAIN STREETS.

Underground System Will Be Laid on Market from the River to Fourth Street.

A CONFERENCE YESTERDAY.

Proposals Invited by Mayor Springer for Important Public Improvement—Relief from Overflow by Water in Down Town Sections.

At a conference yesterday afternoon of Mayor Springer and Alderman W. H. Yopp, of the Streets and Wharves Committee; City Engineer S. P. Adams and City Superintendent of Streets J. M. Woolard, a system of underground drainage for Market street, from the river to Fourth street, was agreed upon, which will eliminate for all time to come the miniature river and lakes which spread out over the lower sections of that thoroughfare during and after each rain storm and which will result in putting an end to the leaping cascades that cut the street all to pieces down the hill by St. James' church after each shower. At present the only drainage that and adjacent sections of the city have is "Jacobs' run," which is totally inadequate and necessarily most of the time in bad repair. The question of drainage in that vicinity has been a troublesome one for several administrations and that the end is now in sight, Mayor Springer and his co-laborers feel confident. It will cost a good sum of money; quite as much, perhaps, as to pave one block of street, but the good resulting will be well worth it.

From the river on both sides of Market street to Second, 24 inch vitrified terra cotta piping will be laid and on the north side of the street to Third, the 24-inch pipe will be continued, but on the south side from Second to Third, only 20-inch will be used. Then on both sides from Third to Fourth street, the 20-inch mains will be continued beyond the crossing. From an advertisement in another column it will be seen that the amount of the 24-inch pipe to be laid is estimated at 1,800 feet, while it is estimated that 1,400 feet of the 20-inch drain will be required. Proposals for laying the same are invited and will be received until 11 A. M. Sept. 18th. Specifications and profile of the work may be seen at the Mayor's office.

It is proposed to have the work completed before work is commenced on paving Market, between Second and Fourth streets, so that that there will be no confusion. At present, from the river to Front street, along Market, there are two lines of 18-inch drains. These will be taken up and used to run cross drains from Second and Princess and Third and Princess streets, emptying into the Market street drain. The overflow on Princess street after each rain will be greatly relieved by the cross drains, which will be laid by the regular city force and not let out by contract.

When the bids are in for the work they will be reported to the Board of Aldermen and will later go to the Board of Audit and Finance for approval. After the result of the recent rains it is not apprehended that there will be objection to an expenditure of the kind in contemplation.

A call for the ambulance was responded to from the James Walker Memorial Hospital and the man was conveyed to that institution for treatment. Showers in the afternoon cooled the atmosphere to some extent, but the humidity was great. At sunset the sky was very red and many people remarked upon the phenomenon. WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 28.

A QUESTION OF COTTON AND WHEAT CORNERS.

A week or so ago the Secretary of Agriculture, Hon. James Wilson, of Iowa, condemned in plain and pointed language the successful manipulation of the cotton market by bold and resourceful speculators. Mr. Wilson characterized these men as "gamblers," and denounced them for "cornering" the supply of raw cotton and thus forcing prices up to a point at which manufacturers could not afford to buy the staple for their factories. The Secretary's criticisms have elicited a vigorous reply from Gen. M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, who discusses the question from the standpoint of a planter.

General Butler dissents totally from Mr. Wilson's conclusions. He holds that the men who "cornered the market" have "done more for the producers of cotton, the farmer, in a few months, than the Department of Agriculture has done in 10 years." The South Carolinian also makes a pungent observation to the effect that "Secretary Wilson did not appear to get into a frenzy of indignation when certain other gentlemen in the West were making a corner on wheat and corn, which enhanced the value of these commodities and from which the farmer got the benefit." If it be true, as General Butler intimates, that Mr. Wilson views a "corner" in grain with benevolent indifference, but is indignant when speculators control the cotton market, it would be interesting to know why the Secretary of Agriculture, who is a stanch protectionist, attaches so much importance to cheap clothes, while he looks with favor upon grain prices which make bread dearer. In the days of the late President Harrison, the protectionist theory was that "cheap clothes make a cheap man." If Mr. Wilson is a protectionist of the Harrison school, he should rejoice over the advance in the price of cotton, because the effect is to make the American people pay more for cotton cloth, and thus prevent them falling into that state of decadence which, according to the protectionist contention, inevitably results from an era of cheap clothing. This is a matter, however, which the Iowan and the South Carolinian may be left to settle between themselves without further comment.

General Butler holds the opinion that the manipulation of the cotton market was a legitimate transaction, and that it will conduce to the benefit of Southern planters. Of course, if it is lawful for our captains of finance to "corner" stocks on the New York Exchange—to run up the value of the securities in which they are directly interested and to hammer down the value of stocks in which they have no interest—there can be no question that it is a legitimate transaction for speculators to force up the price of cotton or any other commodity. Wall street gambles in stocks every day and nobody challenges its legal right to engage in such operations, although stock gambling may bring ruin to thousands of persons who are not speculators, but merely the owners of securities in which "bulls" and "bears" gamble. If it is right for our Napoleons of finance to "corner" stocks, it cannot be wrong for men of brains and capital to bring influences to bear on the cotton market which will cause an advance in the value of cotton and thus net the speculators many millions of dollars. Whether the Southern producers of cotton will derive as great benefits from this transaction as General Butler confidently assumes is at least a debatable question. It is plain that the South Carolinian has no sympathy for the manufacturers in New England and in Europe who are clamoring for cheaper raw material. It is his opinion that they want the lion's share of the profit, and are not inclined to give the planter a fair division. His theory is that the mill-owners have been growing rich at the expenses of the farmer, that "they have not paid a fair price for cotton in the last ten years," that it is to their interest to keep down the value of the raw material, and that the effect of recent speculations will be to deliver the planter from the clutches of the manufacturer. General Butler has been informed, he says, by "a friend largely interested in the manufacture of cotton in the South," that the profit of the manufacturers ranges "anywhere from 10 per cent. to 25 per cent." Hence he concludes that the planter is entitled to better prices for the raw product.

These are the views of a Southern man who has been a producer of cotton for many years on his own plantations. From his standpoint there can be no valid objection to transactions and "corners" in cotton which will enable the planter to obtain more money for his product than he has been receiving under normal conditions for the last 10 years. The argument is apparently sound as far as it goes. But if it is right for the speculator to enhance the value of any commodity by manipulation of the market, it is equally legitimate for him to decrease the value of the same commodity, if thereby he will gain a profit. It may be assumed that the shrewd men who brought about the "corner in cotton" were concerned far less about the interests of the Southern planters than they were about making a handsome profit for themselves. If it had been to their interest to diminish the value of cotton, is it not a fair assumption that they would have adopted the policy which promised them the largest profits, regardless of the injury which such a policy might have inflicted upon the planters? Perhaps General Butler, as a practical cotton-grower, has good reasons for believing that the latest "corner" in cotton will redound to the advantage of the farmers of Dixie. It is hoped that results will prove his confidence was not misplaced. But a crop which may be worth nearly $500,000,000 this year to the South ought not to be at the mercy of speculators.—Baltimore Sun

THE NATURE OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Bright's disease, which caused the death of Lord Salisbury, is a very common malady, especially in men past forty years of age, and may be understood, in a general way, as a more or less chronic inflammation of the substance of the kidneys, says the New York Herald. The ailment may be caused by exposure to cold and check of the skin circulation or by direct disturbance of the organs from irritating substances that are not readily eliminated. Of the latter, spiritnous liquors and other indulgences of high living may be mentioned as leading causative factors.

The various symptoms of the disease are generally of slow development, extending as they do over years of ill health. Occasionally they may not declare themselves for a long time after the affection has secured a firm hold on the patient and are only discovered accidentally in connection with attacks of vomiting, disturbance of sight, transient dizziness, asthmatic seizures and dropsical manifestations.

So insidious is the invasion that the careful physician is always on the alert to make the necessary examinations before venturing a positive diagnosis. When the disease is fully confirmed it is generally fatal, involving in its progress other vital organs, principally the heart and arteries. The former becomes enlarged and dilated, explaining the asthmatic attacks, while the vessels grow rigid, thus disturbing the entire circulation.

As a direct result of such conditions dropsy supervenes from the progressive crippling of the kidney function, to be followed by the resulting accumulation of poisonous materials in the blood, which finally overwhelm the brain, producing the stuporous condition which so commonly marks the fatal ending. This was evidently the course of the malady in Lord Salisbury's case, death occurring during coma.

ONE OF THE BEVERLY GIRLS

[Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure.]

She was lithe and sun tanned, with a suspicion of mellow carmine in her brown cheek and unexpected dimples whenever she talked, but she didn't talk much. She lived out of doors mostly, and she heartily detested head coverings of any description, so that her flaxen hair was crisped over to the color of August corn tassels.

Patty was incongruous and unlike the other Beverlys. People said she was a misfit.

Cheseldine had heard of the charms of the Beverly girls before he went to the little country town of Yarrow, which they illumined with the brilliance of their beauty. Moreover, it had been predicted that he would fall a victim to Medora Beverly, for that was the accepted rule. Still there were exceptions, and some did escape Medora's fascinations, only to become entangled in the silken web of Lillian's golden hair or fall under the spell of Lora's wonderful singing. Cheseldine proved what might be called an exceptional exception, for neither the magnolia complexion and melting dark eyes of Medora, the golden locks and blue orbs of Lillian nor the witching voice of Lora held the charm that he found in Patty's little contradictory face and odd, alert ways. He had only met her accidentally. No one ever seemed to think Patty of much importance. And yet he, John Cheseldine, who had traveled half over the world and never sued for woman's love, found himself a slave.

They became chums after a fashion, and she showed him where the hazelnut patches and papaw thickets were. One day he saw her gather a little bunch of yellow threads that tangled about an herb.

"Now we can tell our fortunes," she said. He looked on, mystified.

"It is golden dodder, or 'love vine.' You take a single thread, tie a loose knot, think of the one you love and try to draw the knot tight. If the thread breaks, you will never marry that person; if not, you will."

He laughed. "Let's try it," he said.

"Did you ever have your fortune told, Mr. Cheseldine?"

"Once—by a gypsy woman. She said I was going to marry a widow."

Patty moved quickly, and the tinge of red spread over her brown cheek.

"And I know now she was lying."

"Why are you so sure?" Patty drew up the golden knot she was tying with a vicious little twist that snapped it.

"Because I do not choose that it shall be true. You've wrecked your love with that thread, Lady Patty. Try another."

"Lady Patty" was the whimsical title he had given her from the first.

She dropped all the golden snarl of vine upon the ground and turned her head away.

"Who did you name?" he asked.

"Nobody—I won't tell. It's all a lie, anyway," she said sharply, and, looking into her face, he saw she was pressing her lips tight together to keep them from quivering. He was puzzled.

"Lady Patty, have I said anything to offend you?"

"No." She turned her head steadfastly away. "Let us go home."

They went on slowly. John was badgering his brain for a solution of Patty's change of mood. It was as if a bright spring day suddenly became overcast, with a flurry of snow.

They came to the bars of a great meadow. Far across it, on the slope of the hill was the little village church and back of it the peaceful "God's acre," whose stones gleamed white in the sunshine. Patty stood gazing at it with solemn eyes.

"Have you any friends there?" John asked reverently. Then she let her eyes—soft, mysterious gray eyes, they were—come back to his face as she answered simply:

"My husband."

"Patty, dear, are you wild? Your husband! Why, you are scarcely more than a child. Are you not one of 'the Beverly girls?'"

"I am Walter Beverly's widow. You may have heard the girls mention their dead brother Walter. I am classed as one of the 'Beverly girls,' and no one thinks me of enough importance to explain or even remember about it, but I am twenty-three and have been a widow for four years. Please lower the bars now and let us go home."

And then he remembered the fortune teller—the widow—

"Patty, Lady Patty, wait," he cried. "I never knew; I never dreamed it. Nobody told me of it. I took it for granted you were the youngest of the Beverly sisters. Love, stop. I will not let you go through the bars until I have told you. I named 'Patty' when I tied the love vine knot, and, see, it is drawn tight. Who did you name?"

"Lower the bars," she ordered imperiously.

"Not until you tell me, Lady Patty," he said immovably.

"I won't tell. Anyway, the thread broke, and, besides, you said you would never marry a widow."

"I lied, then. Here is my vine, Patty. Try your fortune again and name the same name—out loud, mind you. What was it?" She stole a glance at his face and saw all the tenderness in his eyes. Then she took the golden thread, tied a knot in it and murmured scarcely loud enough for him to hear:

"John Cheseldine."

English Manners.

An English innkeeper was found in bed one morning with his throat badly cut. "Why did you do it?" they asked. He replied: "For amusement. I had nothing else to do."

This chimes in curiously with an old French epigram on English manners and customs:

Who hung himself one morning for a change.

A Mystery.

A very small boy was watching his mother sew whalebones in her dress.

"What are they, ma?" he asked.

"Bones," she replied.

"Whose?" continued the little fellow.

"Mine," she answered.

He regarded her a minute in amazement and then asked solemnly, "How did you get 'em out?"

Piercing the Heart to Save Life.

Dr. Coakley, the noted vivisectionist, claims to have discovered a method of injecting saline solution into the heart without causing the death of the subject. He uses an instrument called an organatone, consisting of a fine, hollow gold needle eight inches long, with which he pierces the heart and injects the solution. When the action of the heart is dangerously weak, it is asserted that the injection will stimulate it and thus prolong and possibly save life.—London Tit-Bits.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of two points on all positions except December which was one point lower. The steadiness was due to rather better Liverpool cables than expected, but while these conditions continued to show stability, the favorable weather encouraged heavy realizing and almost immediately the whole list turned weak with prices showing a net decline of from three to twelve points. The crop news from private sources, however, was conflicting, notwithstanding the excellent weather, and more was heard as to the damage being caused by the boll weevil in Texas. These influences, in connection with the continued steadiness at Liverpool and the delayed movement, restricted selling, and as offerings became less insistent the bulls again came aggressively to the support of the market, forcing in the shorts and advancing prices rapidly to a level net three to eight points over yesterday, with August selling up to 12.37, September to 11.34 and December 10.25. On the advance the market, which for the first half hour or so had been active, quieted down considerably and the demand from outside sources was very limited, leaving the entire burden of supporting the market to the clique. Toward the middle of the afternoon buying for these interests dwindled down and the room rendered rather bearish by the good weather, turned to the short side, imparting a declining tendency which was increased later as selling became more general with rumors circulating that the clique were unloading. The close was at practically the lowest of the session and easy, in tone, at a net decline of two and thirteen points. Sales were estimated at 400,000 bales. Receipts of new crop to-day were 157 bales.

Future Looked Dark.

H. W. Bagg, the Wilmington Manufacturer, Saw Little In It But Pain.

The following story is a personal narrative of an experience that seemed to promise the narrator nothing for the future but a life of pain and discomfort. How he found the way out is a story which will interest many Wilmington readers.

H. W. Bagg, merchant and furniture manufacturer of Second and Market streets, residing at 114 North Sixth street, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they proved to be a grand medicine, and I can also say that Doan's Ointment is the best remedy of the kind off the face of the earth. I suffered with my back for a long time. When I sat at my desk for a while and attempted to get up I would have to catch hold of the chair for support and straighten myself up gradually. The kidney secretions were dark colored and full of sediment. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills in our papers and went to R. R. Bellamy's drug store and got a box. Since using them my back is strong and I can move about and stand up

DR. MOFFETT'S TEETHINA (TEETHING POWDERS)

Costs Only 25 cents at Druggists, Or mail 25 cents to C. J. MOFFETT, M. D., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Cures Cholera-Infantum, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, and the Bowel Troubles of Children of Any Age. Aids Digestion, Regulates the Bowels, Strengthens the Child and Makes TEETHING EASY.

OFFICE OF D. H. HARDY, Secretary of State, AUSTIN, TEX., Nov. 21, 1900.

I have found Dr. Moffett's TEETHINA a splendid remedy and aid for my teething children. When my oldest boy was a teething child, every succeeding day warned us that we would inevitably lose him. I happened upon TEETHINA, and began at once administering it to him, and his improvement was marked in 24 hours, and from that day on he recuperated. I have constantly kept it and used it since with my children, and have taken great pleasure in sounding its praises to all mothers of young children. I found it invaluable even after the teething period was passed.

A GAME FOR LIFE

[Original.]

Two Union officers, prisoners of war, at Tullahoma, Tenn., were sitting in the jail yard playing euchre. A Confederate officer approached with a paper in his hand and spoke to them.

"Captains Ward and Greenway, I am ordered to select one of you to be shot in retaliation for a Confederate of the same rank recently shot by the Federals at Murfreesboro under the false accusation of being a spy. Since you both come under the order you must draw lots to determine which shall suffer death."

The prisoners paled at this grim announcement.

"We have cards here," said the older man, Ward. "Let us play a game of euchre."

"Make it a rubber," said the Confederate.

"Barton," said the younger man, "this is terrible."

"It is only death," replied the other, "which we often face in another form."

Barton Ward dealt the cards, and the game began. The first game he lost by a point; the second he won by a point; the third he lost badly.

"Are you satisfied with the outcome?" asked the man in gray.

"I am."

"Come."

The two Union officers embraced with emotion. As Barton Ward passed out of the jail yard to a file of soldiers standing in the street his conductor asked:

"Why did you give him the first and last games?"

"Because he is idolized by his mother, whom I revere, and his sister, whom I love. In his death three would suffer; in mine, but one."

"Sergeant," said the Confederate, "march your men and the prisoner to headquarters."

When the party arrived the officer entered the general's tent. The commander was sitting before a pine table with a scowl on his face. Turning he said gruffly:

"Who are you and what do you want?"

"I am Major Carnes and I wish your authority to insert the name of Captain Barton Ward on the order for the shooting of a Federal captain in retaliation for our Captain Stanbury."

At that moment a mounted officer on a foaming horse dashed up to the tent and called:

"General, the enemy has possession of the gaps."

"Orderly," shouted the general, "tell the chief of staff I wish to see him immediately." Then to those about him: "We are flanked. We must get out of Tullahoma tonight."

"The order, general," said the major. "I cannot obey it unless the name of the officer to be shot is properly filled in."

The chief of staff hurried into the tent.

"What shall I do, general?" the major persisted.

"Get away from here, or I will have you shot in place of the prisoner. I have no time for such matters."

Early the next morning the Union advance guard, pressing down the road to Tullahoma, passing hastily thrown up defenses, finally came to the main fortifications, behind which the Confederates had expected to defend the town, and found them deserted. Pressing on, they came upon the rear guard of the Confederate army and captured a body of men, among them the Union prisoners who had been in jail at Tullahoma. Major Carnes, who had charge of them, found the tables turned. Yesterday he was a jailer; now he was a prisoner.

"Captain," he said to Burton Ward, "I congratulate you."

"Major," returned Ward, "I trust that hereafter when you are ordered to shoot Union prisoners, you will be as particular in the drawing of your order as you have been in this case."

Captain Ward made it his especial business to see that the man who had so nearly acted as his executioner should be treated with every kindness. Carnes remained a prisoner for some months, during which time he learned from Henry Greenway that Captain Ward was a rejected suitor for the hand of Greenway's sister, Alice. Carnes said nothing about having noticed that Ward had purposely lost the games which had been played, with life for the stake, and when he was exchanged the secret went south with him undivulged.

In the spring of 1863 the war was ended, and the Union armies marched home. Barton Ward met Alice Greenway; she relented and consented to be his wife. The wedding had taken place, and the bride and groom departed in the usual shower of rice. The same evening when they were alone the young wife said to her husband:

"Barton, why do you suppose I married you?"

"Because you loved me," said the groom, starting at the strangeness of the question.

"I love you truly, but there is a reason why I would have married you even if I did not love you."

"And that is?"

She handed him a letter:

Petersburg, Va., March 3, 1865.

When Captains Ward and Greenway played a game of euchre with life the stakes, Ward purposely gave Greenway the game. When I asked him why he did so, he said, "Because he is idolized by his mother, whom I revere, and his sister, whom I love."

A pained look settled on the husband's face.

"Are you sure that this is not gratitude rather than love?" he asked.

"I am sure it is love, for no woman could learn of such a noble act in a man without loving him."

JOHN TURNER WYETH.

Gainsborough and His Carrier.

One of the earliest members of the Royal academy, it was Gainsborough's custom to have his pictures conveyed to the metropolis by a prosperous London carrier, a Mr. Wiltshire of Shockerwick, near Bath. This man refused to accept payment on the ground that he loved pictures too well. He was not, however, allowed to go unrewarded, for Gainsborough presented him with six of his best works, and some idea of their ultimate value may be gained from the fact that when at length they were sold the National gallery secured two, "The Parish Clerk of Bradford-on-Avon," for 500 guineas, and "The Harvest Wagon," for £2,500, these prices being considered low. Later "The Sisters" from another gallery realized close upon £10,000.

What this country needs just now more than anything else is people, both men and women, who are willing to be hewers of wood and drawers of water, people willing to do the dirty work of life for the well to do crowd who won't soil their hands if they can help it.

Your local nursery man better than any other man can advise you as to the best varieties of fruit to set out in your locality. He has made a study of this thing, and if you patronize him he will take a pride and interest in furnishing you with such kinds as will best suit your conditions.

A VICTIM OF NERVES.

Yet Rosa Bonheur Possessed One of the Kindest of Hearts.

Glimpses into the private lives of geniuses will probably always be eagerly sought after by the public. For the benefit of the importunate, Edward Martin in a recent novel raises the curtain of the studio occupied by Mme. Rosa Bonheur during her lifetime in the Latin quarter of Paris and allows a peep at the eccentric genius as she often appeared in working hours. Clad in her usual mannish costume of blue jean and smoking a cigarette, she was an unconventional figure enough in her large barnlike room, "dirty and almost unfurnished save for a few high stools built of rough lumber by her coachman." The plentiful splashes of paint which decorated the walls and floor were the results of the many kinds of bad temper possessed by the gifted lady. When a victim of nerves, she was wont to rant and rave about her studio, shouting her remarks to her hearers, though hiding away through it all the kindest of hearts. On this particular occasion the painter of horses was entertaining callers, and, becoming annoyed, she suddenly picked up a huge paint brush, such as might be used in painting a house. For a second or two she walked the floor toying with it as a lady plays with a fan. Then, on the entrance of a manservant, who brought in quietly what seemed to be a card or letter, the great woman stopped perfectly still, eyed him for a moment as a hunter might eye a moose, then, taking deliberate aim, threw the brush. It struck him full in the chest. Paint spattered into his face, and as he turned and made a hasty retreat she remarked to her visitors, "That is why I keep those great brushes and that cheap paint!"

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 28.

GREAT FLOOD IN IOWA.

Miles of Territory Under Water—Railroad Traffic Suspended at Council Bluffs. Several Persons Drowned.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IOWA, Aug. 27.—The Missouri river valley from Missouri Valley twenty miles north to Pacific junction, fifteen miles south of here, is almost a lake for the entire distance, and of the five trunk lines running east from here only one, the Illinois Central, is able to get a train in or out of the city. Two persons, H. H. Larue, of Corning and A. R. Fash, a Clinton, Iowa, horseman, lost their lives while attempting to rescue a number of persons from the Fair grounds, which were suddenly flooded. Larue was electrocuted while pushing a boat under an electric light wire and Fash was drowned. Three others are missing and are thought to have lost their lives on the flooded Fair grounds. The flood was caused by a sudden rise in the Nodaway river early to-day, which submerged the grounds before those having charge of exhibits knew of their danger, part of them being asleep. The water reached a depth of twenty-one feet on the grounds and washed away a number of buildings.

KANSAS RIVERS RISING.

The Result of Heavy Rains North and West of Kansas City.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Aug. 27.—Heavy rains north and west of Kansas City have caused the Kansas and Missouri rivers to rise suddenly to unusual heights and the results may prove grave. A bulletin issued to-day by the local weather bureau announced that the Kansas or Kaw river would rise from five to seven feet at Kansas City in the next forty-eight hours, and a rise of equal magnitude, it is stated, is coming this way down the Missouri. The current is swift and it carries much drift wood. Fears are felt for the temporary bridges.

The Kansas river here to-day rose three feet in ten hours and is still rising rapidly. At Lawrence this stream rose four feet during the night and at Topeka it is also up four feet.

MORE SUITS FILED.

And Other Actions for Debt Against the Hampton Roads Railway Co.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., Aug. 27.—The troubles of the Hampton Roads Railway Company continue to multiply. Creditors filed several more suits against the company to-day and other actions for debt are in the hands of attorneys to be filed to-morrow. In addition to these a number of small creditors having claims of $500 or less have put them in the hands of lawyers for collection.

Thirty warrants against the company, sworn out by the city for failure to have the paving on West avenue completed according to agreement, were tried in the police court this morning. The company was fined $52.50 on each case.

TUNNEL ON FIRE.

On the Clinch Valley Division of the N. & W. Railway Near Virginia City.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ROANOKE, VA., Aug. 27.—A stubborn fire is raging in Craigon tunnel on the Clinch Valley division of the Norfolk & Western railway, near Virginia City, Va. The tunnel is lined with heavy timbers, and was discovered on fire three hundred feet from the east entrance at an early hour to-day. So far it has been impossible to approach the fire from the east end. The officials say it will probably be three or four days before the tunnel is clear. Traffic is blocked.

LANGLEY'S AIRSHIP.

A Trial Trip Expected To-day if Weather Conditions Are Favorable.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WIDE WATER, VA., August 27.—Professor S. P. Langley arrived at his airship house boat off here to day. A launching of the big sixty-foot aerodrome would have been attempted to-day but for the strong wind. The inventor is expected to remain until to-morrow, when with good weather conditions an experiment is expected.

Prof. Langley said this evening that he could not tell just when the big airship will be launched, but that he hoped to see it occur Friday morning. All preparations have been made for the event. Good weather is the desired condition. Prof. Langley remained to-night at Clifton Beach.

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED.

Panic Among Passengers on an Underground Railway in Paris.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PARIS, FRANCE, Aug. 27.—A fire which broke out in a car of the Metropolitan Underground railroad at the Hotel DeVille station to-day caused a panic among the passengers, who jumped from the train. Several persons were injured and one woman fractured her skull. The other passengers were less seriously injured.

The fire was caused by electrical flashes due to defective connection. It was during the rush for the exits that the people were injured.

TURKS MURDER U. S. VICE CONSUL.

Wm. C. Magelssen Assassinated at Beirut, Syria, While Riding in a Carriage.

REPARATION IS DEMANDED.

U. S. Warships in Readiness to Move to Beirut in Case the Demand Upon the Turkish Government is Not Complied With.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—According to the dispatch received here from Constantinople, the Porte has been informed that the United States government has decided to send a squadron to Turkish waters immediately, to demand reparation for the murder of United States Consul Magelssen, at Beirut, Syria, and the punishment of the assassin.

WASHINGON, Aug. 27.—The State Department has received a cablegram from Minister Leishman, at Constantinople, announcing that William C. Magelssen, United States vice consul at Beirut, Syria, was assassinated Sunday while riding in a carriage. The American minister immediately brought the crime to the attention of the government and demanded action by Turkey. Acting Secretary Loomis to-day cabled Minister Leishman, instructing him to demand the immediate arrest and punishment of the persons guilty of the murder. No demand for money indemnity for the man's family has yet been made, but that probably will follow. Magelssen was appointed from Minnesota.

Admiral Cotton, commanding the European squadron, has been cabled by the Navy Department to have his vessels in readiness to move to Beirut, which is on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean sea, in case the demands of the United States government upon the Turkish government are not complied with. The Brooklyn and the San Francisco are at Villefranche and the Machias is at Genoa. Magelssen, who is of Scandinavian descent, was appointed vice consul at Beirut, September 20, 1899, by Consul Gabriel Bie Ravudal, who is of the same nationality. At the time of his appointment as vice consul he was a consular clerk in Turkey. Magelssen was appointed on the recommendation of Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, who says that he was the son of a prominent Lutheran minister. He was born at Bratsburg, Filmore county, Minnesota.

Minister Leishman's cablegram was dated yesterday and stated that the assassination occurred Sunday, the minister being informed of the crime by Consul Ravudal. The consul stated that the murderer was not seen and is not known.

The announcement of the assassination of the American vice consul, following so soon upon the assassination of a Russian consul in Turkey, created strong comment in official circles and the suggestion was made that such frequent assassinations indicate the disturbed condition of affairs in the Turkish dominions. Minister Leishman gave no particulars of the assassination and the State Department has no information as to the cause of the murder. The American government will insist that the local authorities be punished if they were derelict in their duty and that full measure of punishment be given the actual perpetrators of the outrage.

Beirut is a city on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean sea, and is a place of considerable commercial importance. It is probable that the action of the Turkish government and the conditions existing at Beirut will determine whether or not the European squadron is to be sent to Turkish waters. Unless the Turkish government acts promptly upon the demands made by the United States government it is expected that the European squadron will at once go eastward.

Although a copy of the dispatch from Minister Leishman was sent to the Navy Department no request was made upon the department for sending the European squadron to Eastern Mediterranean waters. The Navy Department, however, anticipating that such an emergency might occur, cabled Admiral Cotton to have the squadron in readiness. The President was immediately informed of the assassination, also of the steps that had been taken by the State Department to secure redress. Further details of the crime and the action of the Turkish government are awaited with interest by all government officials.

This latter measure was determined on as a result of conferences which have been held over the telegraph and telephone wires between the officials here during the day and the evening and the President at Oyster Bay. The latter felt that no time should be lost in dispatching Admiral Cotton's squadron to Turkish waters and he gave instructions to Acting Secretary Darling that immediate orders be given Admiral Cotton to proceed at once.

The President's determination to lose no time in getting the squadron to Beirut was also due in part to information received by Acting Secretary Loomis of the State Department to-night from the President of the American Board of Missions at Boston, indicating that an attempt had been made to burn the Euphrates college buildings at Harpoot. This dispatch said:

Another Outrage.

"Information just received that an attempt has been made to burn the Euphrates college buildings. Conditions increasingly alarming. Great anxiety felt for the safety of American citizens there."

Acting Secretary Loomis to-night cabled to Minister Leishman at Constantinople to make immediate demands on the Porte to take adequate measures for the protection of all Americans at Beirut and to prevent any attack on the college buildings.

Admiral Cotton, who was directed to-day to hold his squadron in readiness to proceed at a moment's notice to Beirut, cabled the Navy Department as follows, under date of Nice, France:

"Cable just received. Machias at Genoa for coal. Brooklyn has seven days, San Francisco six and a half days coal at ten knots. Cannot exceed that speed with Machias. If squadron going west should coal at Marseilles. If east at Genoa. (Signed)

"COTTON."

Admiral Cotton's instructions are to sail at once. It is estimated that the Brooklyn going full speed can reach Beirut within six days.

Rather Remarkable.

Acting Secretary Loomis received a rather remarkable cablegram from Minister Leishman to-night in which the latter stated that he had called at the Turkish foreign office at Constantinople this evening to inquire about the assassination of the United States vice consul and that the minister of foreign affairs emphatically denied any knowledge of the report. He also attempted to discredit it. The cablegram gave no other information.

Acting under the instructions of the President, that Admiral Cotton's squadron be directed to proceed immediately to Beirut, Mr. Darling cabled the admiral to this effect at Nice, directing him to go to Beirut at once. The President's instructions on this point will be carried out to the letter.

Prompt Action Taken.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Prompt and vigorous action is being taken by the United States government to secure the punishment of those persons implicated in the assassination of United States Vice Consul William C. Magelssen at Beirut, Syria, Sunday last. Minister Leishman at Constantinople, who reported the fact to the State Department, has been instructed by the State Department to demand a thorough investigation of the affair and the punishment of those involved in the crime and the European squadron, consisting of three warships, has been ordered to proceed immediately to Beirut to support the demands of the United States minister should this be found necessary.

TWO VESSELS IN COLLISION.

Schooner John Booth Ran Down and Sunk by a Steamer--Six Lives Lost. Only Two Men Saved.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

STONINGTON, CONN., Aug. 27.—The Metropolitan steamship H. M. Whitney, from New York to Boston, ran down and sunk the schooner John Booth, just west of New Haven, during last night. The Whitney rescued the captain of the Booth; the Maine, of the Stonington line, saved a sailor, but the five other men in the Booth's crew and a passenger, who belonged in Salem, Mass., were drowned.

The disaster was reported by the officers of the steamer Maine, which arrived to-day from New York. The steamer sighted the Booth just before she went down and her boats were put overboard to assist boats from the Whitney and the Pilgrim, of the Fall River line, which were trying to reach the crew of the Booth. The schooner had been struck about amidship and her side crushed in. Being granite laden, she settled quickly and sank before the boats could get near her. One of the Whitney's boats reached the captain of the Booth, and one of the Maine's boats rescued a sailor named Hassell, who had jumped from the schooner and was swimming. Hassell says he was one of the deck watch, with the captain at the wheel. The weather was fairly clear, but the collision, he says, was entirely unexpected. He believes the lookout was killed when the steamer crashed into the Booth.

INVESTIGATION TO BE MADE.

Alleged Irregularities in Indian Territory Brought to the Attention of the Secretary of Interior Department.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, August 27.—Secretary Hitchcock, of the Interior Department, to-day announced his intention of having a thorough investigation made into irregularities in Indian Territory by some one not connected with the department. This announcement was made in response to a request from the Dawes commission, as follows:

"Widespread and continued newspaper criticism of most serious character, involving integrity of our work and our fidelity to duty, impels us to request that an immediate and a searching investigation be instituted and that the President be informed of this desire. We urge that there be assigned to the work of investigation one whose reputation for honesty, ability and fearlessness is well established and whose findings will be universally accepted."

The secretary replied to the telegrapher, saying that as soon as the proper man could be secured he would be sent to the territory with instructions to make a complete and impartial inquiry into conditions there.

THE WAR GAME.

Navy Captured Long Island and the Army Destroyed Attacking Fleet.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PORTLAND, ME., Aug. 27.—The events and developments in the war geme to-day were considered the most important since the hostile fleet first appeared off Portland. The navy made a grand coup in the capture of Long Island in the forenoon, while the army made a spectacular play in the destruction of all the seventeen opposing ships that attacked the coast defences in the forenoon.

TRAIN BLOWN UP.

Daily Express from Budapest to Constantinople—Seven Persons Killed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SOFIA, BULGARIA, Aug. 27.—The east bound daily express, from Budapest to Constantinople, was blown up near Kuleli Burgos, about twenty-five miles south of Adrianople, early today. Seven persons were killed and fifteen were injured. Dynamite bombs were used. Every car was smashed. Apparently the outrage was the work of revolutionists who travelled on the train.

THE YACHT RACE WAS DECLARED OFF

Because of the Expiration of the Time Limit Before It Was Finished.

RELIANCE FAR IN THE LEAD.

Although Officially No Race, It Was a More Decisive Victory for the Cup Defender Than That of Saturday Last—A Procession.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—With the Reliance less than a mile from the finish and Shamrock III hull down on the horizon, fully two miles astern of the defender, the third race of the present series for America's Cup to-day was declared off because of the expiration of the time limit of five and one half hours, as happened on Thursday last. Although, officially, it was no race, the defeat administered to the challenger was so ignominious that whatever lingering hope remained in the breasts of the friends of Sir Thomas' boat vanished into thin air. Reliance's victory was in every way more decisive than that of last Saturday. Out-sailed, outpointed and out-footed, it was a procession from start to finish.

The Herreshoff wonder beat the Shamrock hopelessly in the fifteen miles of windward work, rounding the outer mark twelve minutes and thirty seconds ahead of her, a gain in actual time of eleven minutes and twenty-nine seconds, and down the wind she steadily increased her lead. The real race of the day was not against Shamrock, but it was seen in the exciting struggle of Reliance in the last half-hour to reach the finish line before the regatta committee fired the gun which should announce the expiration of the time limit. Had the wind freshened twenty minutes earlier than it did, the cup series would have ended to-day with three straight wins for the defender, and Fife's famous light weather boat would have sailed back to Albion's shores one of the most disastrously worsted challengers in the history of the cup contests.

Fully as discouraging as the sailing qualities displayed by the challenger was the atrocious manner in which she was handled. The Yankee skipper not only out-manoeuvred his rival in the spectacular battle for position at the start, as he has done every time they have met, but worst still for the down-hearted supporters of Shamrock, Captain Wringe repeated his blunder of Tuesday. He crossed the wake of Reliance with a handicap of sixty-one of the precious seconds for which Fife had sacrificed so much in sail spread for time allowance. Both boats, it is true, went over after the handicap gun, but where both are handicapped, it is only the sternmost craft which actually suffers.

It was not a pleasant day on the water, and the observation fleet which put out to sea to witness the race was hardly more than half as large as on the preceding days. The dark water of the ocean was as smooth as a floor and a light breeze of about four knots blew out of the southwest. The course was laid fifteen miles dead into the wind and return.

At the end of the first hour Shamrock was beaten and the interest waned. After rounding the float for the run home and setting big balloonets, the wind which had strengthened to six or seven knots on the beat, died down and the towering clouds of canvas drifted lazily down an ocean lane, a mile wide, between the two divisions of the excursion fleet.

Even in the light air it was astonishing how the defender slipped through the placid seas. With the gentle breeze distending the surface of her pure white sails and her stern crowded with tars to hold her head up, she moved along as serenely and peacefully as if in a dreamless sleep. Yet the gap between her and the challenger steadily widened until two miles separated them. Half an hour from home, when the spectators had abandoned any idea that the finish line could be reached in time, the wind suddenly freshened and Reliance came bowling down at a merry clip. But the wind had come too late and when still a few hundred yards from home the gun on the tug Navigator boomed across the water. The excursion boats held on until she crossed the line to give her a rousing welcome and then scampered for New York. Sir Thomas, who, heretofore, has always followed his champion into the Hook, sent his steam yacht, the Erin, ahead at full speed, as if to drown out the memory of the inglorious licking he got today.

The next race, which will be like the one attempted to-day, 15 miles to leeward or windward and return, will be sailed on Saturday.

Still Has Hope.

SANDY HOOK, Aug. 27.—Sir Thomas Lipton, speaking of to-day's affair, said:

"I am willing to repeat what I said this morning. I still have hope, slight though it is. Let us hope for a spanking good breeze Saturday. I called my friends around me this afternoon and was about to express my regret at my failure when I happened to look at my watch. Then I reserved my decision, and I may never have to make that speech."

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION.

Annual Address—Report of the Committee on Commercial Law—The Trust Question Discussed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

HOT SPRINGS, VA., August 27.—At the morning session of the American Bar Association to-day the annual address was delivered by Lebaron B. Colt, of Rhode Island, United States judge from the first circuit. Judge Colt's subject was the "Reasonableness of the Law." The common law is nothing but reason, an opening sentence, was the keynote of the paper.

Walter S. Logan, of New York, made a verbal report from the committee on commercial law. He commended the national bankrupt law and then discussed the trust question. He said it would have to be settled by the lawyers; if they did not, the demagogues would. If combinations continue competition will cease, and commercial jurisprudence will eventually be entirely changed. The committee, he said, had reached the unanimous conclusion that modern industrial combinations should be stayed.

Hon. Charles F. Manderson, of Nebraska, said the report of the committee had filled him with amazement, surprise and indignation. He said the report was calculated to rend the association asunder and he resented the attempt to turn the body into a political hustings. He asked that the report be read. There was opposition to the motion and considerable confusion. The convention agreed to hear the report at once. It was read by Chairman Logan and was very fully discussed.

"The modern combinations' primary object is to control trade and commerce in plain articles of production and substitue a more or less perfect monopoly in the place of a more or less free competition. It changes entirely the basic principle of commercial relations between man and man, and if they are to continue to grow and develop in the future as in the past, will render necessary most important changes in the principles of our commercial laws. Combination as an economic force is fast coming to take the place of competition.

"We are now having combinations of combinations. The United States Steel Corporation is a combination of a dozen heretofore competing producers, who themselves were combinations of still other producers, and these in turn often combinations of still others.

"It is estimated that the Standard Oil Company has taken, by contract or force, the business of ten thousand corporations and merchants in all parts of the Union. The few present great railroad lines of the country have been made up by the combination of hundreds of smaller lines, some extension of one another and other competing lines.

"The ambition of the shipping trust, perhaps the pet project of the great American combine, has been to control all the ships that sail the ocean. A hundred years ago there were hardly two ships owned by the same individual or corporation, and even fifty years ago there was scarcely a ship owner, individual or corporation that owned half a dozen ships. No one knows but that within the next ten years a greater man than J. P. Morgan will arise who will combine into one organization all the industries of the land, so that the workman who works for wages can find but one possible employer and the purchaser of wares but one possible seller. The steps toward the formation of one industrial corporation which shall crowd out all other corporations and assume to itself all the industries of the land, have been already more than half taken. It is not so far to go from now to that end as we had to go to reach present industrial conditions.

"A monopoly economically is desirable, that is for the monopolist. The United States Steel Corporation can produce, no matter what it sells them for, its goods cheaper than the elements out of which the combination as composed ever produced them. The Standard Oil Company is economically holy, for it pays 40 per cent. dividends. The Sugar Trust is economically correct, for whereas the individual sugar refiners lost money on small capitalizations, the Sugar Trust pays big dividends on a large capitalization. The railroad combinations are economically impregnable, for they pay.

"If Mr. Morgan's shipping trust and Mr. Schwab's shipbuilding trust are failures, they are exceptions to the rule. We cannot, therefore, rely on natural forces, on the laws of supply and demand, or on economic considerations to limit the growth of modern combinations. If they are desirable; if the people of the American nation would be better off without them or with limitations put upon them, they must put these limitations on by the action of their legislatures, their congress and their courts. The American bar must act and the American Bar Association must take the lead."

Remedies Proposed.

On the subject of trusts the report says:

"1. We can tax them to death; or if that is too radical a remedy we can tax them until their growth and enlargement is impeded. There are constitutional provisions requiring direct taxation to be uniform, and in view of these provisions it is probably impossible to discriminate in the matter of direct taxation against corporations holding large amounts of taxable property. There is, however, a franchise tax imposed by most of the States upon corporations at the time of their incorporation and annually thereafter. This franchise tax is in almost all States in some way graded so as to tax the small corporation at a higher rate than the large one. The first million pays a higher rate than subsequent millions. In our judgment the graduations should be continued, but it should be a grading up instead of down. We would leave, perhaps, the first hundred thousand free and the first million cheap, and raise the rate with each succeeding million. The United States Steel Corporation now has a capitalization of something over one thousand millions. The graduation stages might be slow and easy enough to please the most conservative, and yet result in a taxation of ten per cent. upon the last hundred millions. How long would the United States Steel Corporation continue under that system of taxation?

"2. We can compel them to render better and cheaper service. If the combination of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern railroads is a great enough public disaster to have warranted the attention which it has attracted, it could have been prevented much easier than by a hundred Sherman anti-trust laws by a single United States statute that required any corporation engaged in interstate commerce to reduce its rates fifty per cent. to and from every point where competition has been prevented by combination, merger, common control or agreement. Congress can enact that any corporation or individual who engages in interstate commerce must furnish its services or supply its goods at lower rates wherever by any combination, competition is prevented, than where competition is left free.

"3. If necessary, the State itself can enter the industrial field as a producer and restore the force of competition to its former supremacy by becoming itself a competitor of the great trusts."

The report is signed by all the members of the committee, consisting of Walter S. Logan, Henry Budd, Gardiner Lathrop, George Whitelock and John Morris, Jr.

There was a very warm discussion over a motion to table the report. There was great excitement on the floor and finally it was agreed the report should be taken up at the night session.
